

Booklists

The following booklists were compiled from favorites of parents, teachers and children over many years. All the booklists are included in The Book Club Game. You are free to copy these to replace them in the game and/or use them to take to the library and bookstore. The Preschool-kindergarten list has many titles and does not coordinate with the game; it is just a starting point of some favorite literature that you are sure to enjoy with your children and that, of course, can be used to play The Preschool-Kindergarten Edition of The Book Club Game.

The Grades 1-3 as well as Grades 3-6 titles are the answers that correspond to a game spot and green cards that hint to the title in The Book Club Grades 1-6. The more of these titles the player is familiar with in the game, the better s/he will do with these hints, a very exciting part of the game! Players can create their own hints from other books as well. These are starting lists of great books for children and adults to read together. All can be found in your library, on Amazon.com., and have audios and/or movies to aid struggling, ESL and beginning or non readers. Using The Book Club Game with movies and audios can build comprehension and communication skills, starting this process early for those who are not readers or proficient readers. Starting with a movie is a great way to motivate a reluctant reader as well.

As you play the game put a check by the titles you might want to read or don't know:

Below the lists is a how-to guide to find more books of interest to play the game or just enjoy. The list also guides you to capture vocabulary words and inspiration actions and is meant to be taken by each player as a reminder to use the new words and carry out the good inspiration actions. In the game questions guide players to capture inspiration from each story and identify actions they can use that inspiration with to make a positive difference in their life, someone else's life or the world. The list of those actions is included on their personal booklist to remind them to carry out the actions. Print this back to back with your Grade level booklist and you will have an automatic personal booklist generator! Please email your favorites to info@readingsolutions.net to add to the booklists at the end. Return Home
